

Nov. 13th

We have officially completed our mural paintings, narrative writing, and reading Freak the Mighty for our first unit on Identity and Community. In Humanities class, we will begin our next unit on Slavery and the Reconstruction Era, informational writing, and create book clubs for reading. This unit will take us into the end of December. I have given the students access to a website they can use to practice their reading skills at home: CommonLit.com. They have their access code and password and they can always login from home and read and answer questions. Lets up these into practice!
